How do you become the person you want to be?

Summative Assessment

Brainstorm

Look back over your Abd el-Kader materials. What actions strike you as admirable or remarkable? List at least three in addition to the examples provided. Cite your source for each.

- Made sure French prisoners were treated decently (Biography). In fact, a soldier named Escoffier requested to be assigned to guard AEK to provide the same level of humane care he received while a prisoner in Algeria (Stage Project: "A Guard's Request).
- Collaborated with Eugene Daumas on a book about horses, Horses of the Sahara, that has been translated into English and is still in print (The Legend of the Horse).

Cause and Effect

Now think about what prepared Abd el-Kader for each of these actions, and prepare detailed cause and effect information for at least two. In the examples below, notice that sources are provided, but ideas are not copied directly from the sources.

AEK came from a family of marabout, which meant that he had to demonstrate good character and high standards of conduct and religious duty (Marston, p. 11). AEK's family expected him to become a decent man, and he was an obedient son. We know that he became a decent man because the tribes accepted him as emir (Marston, p. 17).	Made sure French prisoners were treated decently (Biography).
